DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group I, claims 1-10 in the reply filed on 1/15/2010 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Go (US 6,320,566 B1).

Regarding claim 10, Go '566 clearly teaches a data driver IC (see Go '566 column 1, line 52 "data driver IC 11") for a liquid crystal display device (see Go '566 column 1, lines 10-11), characterized in that the data driver IC inputs a first clock signal (see Go '566 FIG. 12, FD1, and as described at column 6, lines 37-65, further illustrated at FIG. 11) and a second clock signal in reverse relation with the first clock signal (see Go '566 FIG. 12, FD2, and as described at column 6, lines 37-65, further illustrated at FIG. 11), selecting the first or second clock signal based on a selection signal, and can selectively latch data signals with the first and second clock signals (col. 4, lines 10-28 and 31-44. Although not specifically mentioned, the clock signal generator selects either the first clock signal or the second clock signal depending on if the odd or even lines are receiving the first or second latch signals, which are respectively selected as well. The latch circuit has two sections and either section is selected to latch data signals depending on if the first or second clock signals are selected, respectively.)

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 1-9 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
